Drug ahuse is normaling keccovery center. Kentucky If you are currently struggling then there is help

In Lexington, Kentucky, heroin, crack cocaine, alcohol addiction, nicotine, and barbiturates are prevalent. Barbiturates in particular are commonly abused when they are prescribed by physicians, and are also illegally distributed throughout the streets of Kentucky.

The statistics for drug use in Kentucky are eye-opening, and most certainly on the rise. In 2017 over 1,500 people in Kentucky died from a drug overdose. That is about four people each day and has steadily increased to 11.5 percent every year.

Heroin and cocaine continue to be highly abused with heroin accounting for nearly 70 percent of all overdoses. The need for rehabilitation is more important than ever and finding the right rehab center is a necessity for successful treatment.
